Tank Battles at Kharkov and Vyazma Borders

TANK battles were reported to be taking place last night in the vicinity of Kharkov, and Berlin claimed that German troops, advancing from two directions, were fighting on the borders of the city and had captured many villages.

In the Vyazma sector the Soviet advance continues, and Reuter states that the fall of this important German position is only a matter of hours.

At a dinner in Washington yesterday Litvinov, Soviet Ambassador, expressed the indebtedness of his country for the very substantial aid given by America —aid of which, he said, the Russian people were fully aware.

LONDON, Thursday. — Reuter's Moscow correspondent, cabling to-night, says that the final battle for Vyazma has started, and Soviet troops are closing on the town from three sides. But the issue of the struggle for Kharkov still hangs in the balance. "Though Soviet resistance has so far proved too tough for the Germans, this must not obscure the fact that the situation is still very tense.

"Soviet forces are converging on Vyazma on a 20-mile front from Tumanovo to Isakovo, on the railway from Kaluga. Their advance units are reported ten miles from the town. The German defence belt has been broken in several places on the River Ugra, a few miles east of Isakovo."

More villages have been recaptured by Soviet troops advancing west of Sychevka, in the Smolensk region, said Moscow Radio to-night.

The Radio also said that the Germans have transferred 1,000 tanks and 340,000 men to Russia from France, according to the Rome correspondent of the Swedish Aftontidningen.

GERMAN CLAIM

A German High Command statement to-night said that on the Kharkov front, though German attacks met with the most determined resistance yesterday, infantry and tanks of the Army and the Waffen S. S. broke through at several points, and reached the city border in the north and west.

West of Kursk, it was claimed, German tank units occupied a number of places. In the eastern part of the Kuban bridgehead Soviet attacks yesterday were preceded by a furious ninety minutes' artillery barrage, after which Soviet troops attacked in several waves on a broad front, but all attacks failed.

Captain Sertorius, German Radio Military Correspondent, said to-night that the German counter-offensive between Donetz Basin and the Dnieper bend is "still going on and is still dictating its will to the enemy." Only the direction of the thrust has been changed. Originally it developed in a north-easterly direction. However, after the Middle Donetz was reached, the bulk of the German striking force veered toward the north, broke stiff Russian resistance south of Kharkov, and closely enveloped this city from south and west. In addition, it made a thrust with strong forces farther toward the north.

"It is significant that, in order to support the tottering front at Kharkov, the Russians some days ago withdrew considerable forces from south-west of Kursk. In doing so they gave German troops an opening, which they immediately exploited, for a powerful counter-thrust in an easterly direction. Additional and more pronounced repercussions will presently make themselves felt in case the Soviets fail to check the German advance north of Kharkov."—(Reuter.)

ROOSEVELT ON "NEXT BLOW"

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, in a statement yesterday, said: "Lend-Lease aid will contribute increasingly to the defeat of the Axis." Axis promises that U.S. aid would be too little and too late had been disproved. To the question: "Where will the Allies strike next?" The Axis would receive an answer, on "battlefields of our own choosing."—(A.P.)

AMERICAN ASSISTANCE TO RUSSIA

This was £120,000,000 more than what was sent to Australia, New Zealand, China and India combined, but was less than half the total to the United Kingdom.

The figures were released yesterday in Washington by Mr. Stettinius, Lend-Lease Administrator.

Mr. Sumner Welles, U.S. Under-Secretary of State, said yesterday that Admiral Standley, American Ambassador in Moscow, made it clear in his report to the State Department that he was speaking in his personal capacity, and not for the U.S., when he made his Moscow statement.

Mr. Sumner Welles declined to confirm or deny rumours that Admiral Standley had been recalled.

The full report of the interview in which the Admiral said that the Russian people were not being fully informed of Lend-Lease aid, Mr. Welles said, did not differ essentially from reports published in America.

Acknowledged By Litvinov

M. Litvinov, Soviet Ambassador, said the Soviet Union has been waging war without the slightest lull for twenty months now along a continuous front of 2,000 miles.

"It is hardly possible for the mind even to grasp the enormous quantities of all varieties of armaments and supplies used by the Red Army during this period.

"Although much the largest part of these supplies has had, of course, to be provided by the Soviet Union itself, supplies received through lend-lease have been an enormous help, and as such deeply appreciated by the people of the Soviet Union, who are fully aware of its extent."—(Reuter.)

NEW AXIS TUNISIAN ATTACKS

NEWS of the repulse of fresh Axis attacks in Northern and Southern Tunisia and the capture by the French of Metlaoui, a mining centre south-west of Gafsa, was reported in a Reuter message from Africa last night.

Marshal Rommel has struck again at the Eighth Army in the extreme south-west of the Mareth front. Details of this fresh fighting around Ksar Rhilane are scanty, but an Allied Headquarters announcement last night indicated that the Axis attack, launched with tank support, has been held, and has already suffered more losses.

Ksar Rhilane is 55 miles south-west of Medinine, whence Marshal Rommel retreated towards the hills after the smashing of his earlier assault on the Allied positions.

British forces in Northern Tunisia repulsed another German attack in the coastal are west of Sedjenane. The Germans struck on Wednesday afternoon, but, says Reuter, were driven back without difficulty.

The Germans, attacking with four battalions, supported by artillery and dive-bombers, were repulsed three miles north-east of Tamera.

French forces have occupied the little rail town of Metlaoui, approximately half-way between Tozeur and Gafsa, in the south. Gafsa, an important road and rail centre held by the Axis for the past week, is itself reported in imminent danger, with Allied forces closing in from several sides. Land activity generally is still, however, on a small scale.

AIR FLARE-UP

After the recent inactivity enforced by bad weather, Allied aircraft have been particularly successful over the entire battle area. Heavy bombers which raided the Axis airfields at El Aouina and La Marsa, just outside Tunis, saw their bombs bursting all over both. At El Aouina aircraft on the ground were hit, and several fires started. Eight Axis fighters were shot down during these raids.

Medium bombers which attacked Gafsa scored a number of hits, while in offensive sweeps over the northern and central sectors fighters attacked troops, transport, and gun positions. From all operations one Allied plane failed to return.

Mr. Stimson, U.S. Secretary for War, disclosed in Washington yesterday that American casualties in the fighting in Tunisia between February 14 and 20 were estimated at 2,242. These were made up of 59 killed, 176 wounded, and 2,007 missing, according to incomplete reports. British and French losses were believed to have been relatively light, he added. Axis losses included 1,000 prisoners captured and 100 tanks taken or destroyed.

Both sides had suffered severely, but, said Mr. Stimson, the United Nations were in a better position than the Axis to provide replacements. During the past week the Allied forces had had much the better of the fighting.—Reuter.

CABINET POSITION IN NORTH

IN the Northern Ireland House of Commons yesterday, Mr. J. Brown (Industries and Farmers, South Down) asked the Prime Minister whether it was a fact that three Parliamentary Secretaries had tendered their resignations and had withdrawn them temporarily, and whether he could state the grounds for the resignations and what period was indicated by "temporarily."

Mr. Andrews said he had no information to give concerning private correspondence or conversations between members of the Government and himself.

Mr. Brown—Was not the statement which appeared in the Press perfectly correct?

Mr. Andrews did not reply.

CABINET PENSIONS

Questioned on rumours that the Government intended to introduce a bill to provide pensions for Cabinet Ministers, Mr. Andrews said that it was a matter for the House, and would have to be considered first by a Select Committee.

Mr. Nixon (Ind., Woodvale)—Would it not be a good investment for the country to give Cabinet Ministers something to get rid of them?

There was no reply.

Information "Carried Across Border" —Northern M.P.

In the British House of Commons yesterday, Dr. Little (Co. Down) asked the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether, "as information useful to the enemy is continuing to be carried across the border between Northern Ireland and Eire," he will enforce stricter regulations to prevent such information reaching representatives of Axis countries in Dublin.

Mr. Morrison—There is nothing I can usefully add to the replies already given to Dr. Little.

Boxer Sentenced to Death

PRETORIA, Thursday. — Sidney Robey Leibrandt, former South African Olympic boxer, was convicted of high treason, and sentenced to death by a special court to-day. R.A.F. Trail of Devastation in Germany: Over a Million People Left Homeless

BOMBER Command's "pulverising offensive" is spreading a great trail of devastation throughout Germany and Italy, Sir Archibald Sinclair, British Secretary for Air, told the House of Commons, in submitting the Air estimates yesterday.

Something like 2,000 factories and industrial works have been destroyed and substantially more than a million people have been rendered homeless—not counting the large numbers evacuated for fear of air attack—rendering towns in the eastern part of Germany, including Berlin, intolerably overcrowded.

"The one-thousand bomber raids —the one-thousand ton raids—the devastation of a long roll of German cities, and the heavy daylight attacks carried into the heart of Germany and Italy mark the past year as a period of successful exploitation of progressive tactical and technical developments; the weight of our attacks increases steadily.

"This is no time for relaxing in any direction the concentration of our effort for victory. The fighting strength and exertions of the Royal Air Force have increased, are increasing, and in the coming year will mount."

Over ten thousand tons of bombs, he said, were dropped by Bomber Command in February, and over four thousand tons in the first ten days of March.

FOR SECOND FRONT

The following hint was given of preparations for a Second Front:—"The lessons of the combined air, land and sea operations in Africa are being learnt in this country. The main responsibilities for applying them rest on Army Co-operation Command. It is not only, however, on the squadrons of Army Co-operation Command that the Army will rely when it is fighting on the Continent of Europe. The whole resources of the Royal Air Force will be united with those of the Army to destroy the air and man-power of the enemy. Accordingly, bombers and fighters train and exercise with the Army. The whole of the day fighter squadrons in Fighter Command, with very few exceptions, have exercised with the Army.

"In addition to these squadrons we have formed a number of special tank-buster and fighter-bomber squadrons for the particular purpose of giving close support to troops in action. The C.-in-C., Army Co-operation Command, has seen the Western Desert Air Force in action."

AIR TRANSPORT

Sir Archibald announced that he had decided to establish a Royal Air Force Transport Command. In addition to controlling the operations of Royal Air Force transport squadrons at home, the Command would be responsible for the organisation and control of strategic air routes, for all overseas ferrying, and for the reinforcement moves of squadrons to and between overseas theatres.

"It would be a great mistake," he said, "to suppose that the strength of the German striking force in Western Europe can be measured by the size of raids attempted on this country. Throughout the whole of the past year there has been a formidable German bomber force in Western Europe. The soundness of our air defence has been a strong deterrent.

SHIPPING SUNK

Turning to attacks on shipping, Sir Archibald said:—During the last two years the Royal Air Force, in all theatres of war, has sunk or seriously damaged more than one-and-a-quarter million tons of enemy shipping. There has been a nine-fold increase in 1942, as compared with 1941, in the number of mines laid, and a very substantial number of ships has been sunk. New weapons and many strange contrivances are being used to increase the effectiveness of the air patrol of sea routes and attacks upon U-boats.

"Our main object in all operations during the past year has been to intervene effectively in the land struggle in the East, and to take as much weight as possible off our Russian Allies."

Speaking of Fighter sweeps and escorted daylight bomber raids, he said:—We have lost 600 Fighter aircraft, shot down by German Fighters and guns. But our Fighters and guns have inflicted a loss over this country and France during the same period of 655 on the enemy. Moreover, of more than 2,500 Bombers escorted by our Fighters, fewer than 50 have been lost. The result of these attacks has been to compel the enemy to keep his finest Fighters and pilots in Western Europe all through the hard battles in Russia and in Africa.

HELICOPTERS IN SEA WAR

HELICOPTERS — aircraft which can rise almost vertically from a confined deck space, and land in the same way—are to be used by Britain for the protection of shipping and the war against U-boats.

Documents Captured in the North

Mr. J. C. MacDermott, Attorney-General, replying to the debate on the second reading of the Bill to Amend the Civil Authorities (Special Powers) Act in the Northern Ireland Parliament yesterday, quoted extracts from captured documents, and said that he would not have taken up the time of the House, but unfortunately it was quite clear that there were preparations for a campaign of violence. Who would suggest that there was no reason to think of anything at the present time but building houses and attending to the health of the people?

Mr. J. Beattie (Labour, Pottinger), in the course of the debate, described the Special Powers Act as a symbol of fear. He produced a copy of the Ulster Solemn League and Covenant, which he described as the most illegal document ever produced in any country. It was riddled with treason. Were they prepared to make the bill retrospective, and so put the people proved guilty by the documents in jail? Mr. Beattie accused the Government of having led the youth of Ireland into the path of rebellion.

The bill was read a second time.

Liquor Bill Crux

The formal announcement that the Senate had disagreed with certain amendments to the Intoxicating Liquor Bill made by the Dail appeared on the Order Paper of the Dail yesterday, but no reference to it was made by the Minister for Justice. Nothing further is expected to be heard concerning it until the Dail meets the week after next. In the meantime there is a possibility of a conference being held between both Houses with a view to finding a solution.

Galway Murder Charge

Martin Griffin (48), dairyman, of Bushy Park, Galway, was brought before District Justice Forde at Galway yesterday, charged on remand with the murder of his wife, Bridget, at their home at Bushy Park. He was remanded for a further week.

Cardinal Hinsley's Condition "Grave"

Cardinal Hinsley's condition was reported to be very grave last night, and oxygen has been administered.

Road signs have been erected near the Cardinal's house at Buntingford, Hertfordshire, bearing the words—"Silence, please. Serious illness of Cardinal Hinsley."

Later last night the Press Association was informed that Cardinal Hinsley "has had a fairly comfortable day, but his condition is unchanged."

When raiding 'planes crossed the north-east coast of England last night anti-aircraft batteries fired on them.

Wave of Agrarian Violence —MINISTER FOR JUSTICE

AGRARIAN trouble which has flared up in the South of Ireland during the past twelve months has already resulted in the burning of a house, the discharge of shots at houses of men allotted land under the Government's land-division policy, and the sending of a threatening letter.

So far, the Garda authorities have compiled files on twenty-seven crimes arising out of the campaign, which is directed against land division on the Ballyholohan Estate at Emly, Co. Tipperary.

Disclosing these facts in the Dail yesterday, Mr. G. Boland, Minister for Justice, said that the crimes were all part of a campaign of "intimidation and violence carried on over twelve months against the division of the Estate. This conspiracy in the Emly area," he added "is a serious matter, and the Garda Siochana are bound to use every legitimate means in their power to end it."

As an indication of the seriousness of the situation, Mr. Boland said that on the night of February 18 revolver shots were fired into the house of a man allotted a parcel of land and thirteen rifle shots discharged in its immediate neighbourhood. Of the 27 crimes reported, ten were cases in which shots had been fired at houses.

As the Garda feared that attempts might be made to rescue them, five men detained in Dundrum, Golden and Cappawhite (Co. Tipperary) barracks, on Sundays in February, were not permitted to leave the stations to attend Mass.

The men did not avail themselves of an offer by the Garda to have Mass celebrated in the stations.

£13,000,000 VOTED BY DAIL

ELEVEN of the forty-four millions estimated national expenditure are devoted to emergency services, Mr. S. T. O'KELLY, Minister for Finance, told the Dail last night when the vote of thirteen millions on account was agreed to. Almost every aspect of the social and economic fabric was touched on during a two days' debate.

Mr. H. M. DOCKRELL (F.G., Dublin) said that external trade now was confined to Northern Ireland, Great Britain and America, but no Irish Minister had visited those countries to secure co-operation. "I do not know whether the Government have received an invitation to the American Conference for post-war planning, but I would like to suggest quite frankly that what the Government are afraid of is that if they go near a Minister in Northern Ireland or Britain they will return with a declaration of war in their pockets. I think the Government ought to face up to the present situation and get rid of the phobias of the past, because the country cannot continue very much longer the way it is going.

"Recently a Government Minister said that they had a plan to meet the post-war situation. If they have it should be communicated to industry, because it takes more than the Government to make a plan. Post-war conditions will bring a worsening of the present situation, and if the finished products are brought in here in front of raw materials, it would help the country to get its feet more quickly than if the Government retains its stranglehold on imports and doles out much-needed materials in small quantities."

How, asked Mr. J. HICKEY (Lab., Cork), could they hope to realise the ideal of one Parliament for the whole country, so long as the social services in the South were so much below the level of those north of the border.

WRITING ON WALL

Urging the Government to regard the writing on the wall, Mr. J. M. DILLON (Ind., Monaghan) said that the time was coming when the good, sound Catholic doctrine that the lending of money for profit was usury, and, therefore, rotten, but if they waited until the social structure was abolished by violence, then it would be a very costly affair. If Fianna Fail policy continued, all they would have would be dirty little backroom workshops, with vultures from the four corners of the earth coming in to pluck the vitals from our people, and their pinions spread ready to fly away again gorged with our people's blood when they had sucked them dry.

HONEST ATTEMPT

Mr. BRISCOE (F.F., Dublin) said that the present Government had done everything in the way of abolishing evils and providing better conditions, but certain situations had arisen which had prevented the carrying out of their schemes under normal conditions.

Mr. W. NORTON (Carlow-Kildare, Lab.) said that it was not so much the size of the bill which concerned him, but the fact that it represented a very substantial part of the national income, which was falling to a degree lower than any previous period. They were spending eight million pounds on services which were just injections of charity and not a single one of them was a substitute for decent wages.

MINISTER'S REPLY

The MINISTER, in reply, said that there was a difference of over seven million pounds in the amount spent on the Army in 1931-32 to 1943-44. A total sum of over £11,750,000 was due to emergency services, and that would reduce the total increase of £18,750,000 over the 1931-32 figure to £7,000,000. Out of that increase of £7,000,000, unemployment assistance now cost £1,240,000; employment schemes cost £1,250,000, and they had provided an additional £1,020,000 for old age pensions. This year they were providing £621,000 for housing, as against Fine Gael's 1931-32 figure of £11,500. In 1931-32 Fine Gael was unable to spare a halfpenny for widows' and orphans' pensions, yet this year Fianna Fail was providing £450,000. Not a penny had been spent in 1931-32 on employment schemes or on unemployment assistance.

Mr. O'KELLY compared the previous figures of £197,000 to £620,000 now for Army pensions; £196,700 to £445,000 for public health grants; and besides all that, he said, there were two services of direct benefit to agriculture—£635,000 for the Land Bond Fund and £700,000 for the dairy industry.

The vote was agreed to, and the Dail adjourned till March 24th.

Day Raids on Brittany

Aircraft of British Fighter Command yesterday afternoon attacked railway locomotives and other objectives in Brittany. Other fighters on patrol destroyed two opposing fighters. One British fighter is missing. "The Guerledan switching and transformer plant was among targets which were attacked by Fighter Command aircraft, states the Air Ministry News Service. Operating singly, they shot up and damaged nine goods locomotives and two transformer stations. Four of the locomotives were attacked within twenty minutes by one of the fighters.

"The transformer station at Guerledan, in Brittany, was attacked twice with cannon fire. Great blue flashes and clouds of smoke followed the first burst, and, after the second, some of the transformer parts toppled over and buckled. Another of the fighters attacked a small transformer station at St. Harbot, in Brittany, and shot up two trains in the vicinity of Quimper."

Hastings Bombed, Say Germans

"This afternoon an enemy aircraft dropped bombs at two places on the South-East coast of England," said last night's British Air communiqué. "Damage was done, and there were casualties, including a small number of people killed. One enemy aircraft was destroyed by anti-aircraft fire."

The German radio last night said: "Fast German bombers this afternoon attacked the harbour town of Hastings, on the English South coast."

THE most widely-discussed appointment at the National University for many years was settled yesterday, when, after a discussion of about an hour and a half, the Senate approved of the recommendation of the Governing Body of University College, Dublin, to appoint Mr. W. J. Williams as Professor of Education.

The meeting was presided over by the Chancellor, Mr. de Valera, and thirty members were present. The proceedings were private, but an Irish Times reporter learned that the case for and against the appointment, in the circumstances, of a candidate without a teaching knowledge of Irish, were fully, but reasonably, explained, and that the voting resulted in 23 votes for Mr. Williams and 7 votes against.

At the same meeting Professor John F. Reardon, of Cork, was appointed to the Chair of Celtic Archæology, and Dr. John F. Cunningham was appointed Lecturer in Gynæcology.

PROFESSOR'S CAREER

Professor Williams was an undergraduate at University College, Galway, from 1897 to 1901, being Blayney Exhibitioner in Classics and Senior Scholar in Metaphysics and Political Science. After taking his B.A. degree in Classics he took his higher diploma in education in 1910, and his M.A. in education in University College, Dublin. Until 1914 he was engaged in teaching in secondary schools. From 1914 to 1924 he was tutor and supervisor of university students at All Hallows College, and was also on the lecturing staff of the College of Science and the Albert College in a number of subjects, which included English, mathematics and education. On the amalgamation of the College of Science with University College, Dublin, he was transferred to the latter body as Lecturer in Education, and has been lecturer there for the last twenty years.

He was editor of the "Irish Journal of Education" from 1912-1917, and was secretary and later chairman (1918-1920) of the Secondary School Teachers' Association. He has served on a number of Government Commissions and committees on education, including the Viceregal Committee on Intermediate Education (1918-1919) and the Commission for the Re-organisation of Education in 1922.

PROFESSOR REARDON

Professor John P. Reardon, who was appointed to the Chair of Celtic Archæology in succession to Professor Macalister, after leaving the national school in Cork worked for some time at Haulbowline. He was called to training at the De La Salle College, Waterford, and passed his final examination to qualify as a primary teacher in the first division. He took his B.A. at University College, Cork, in 1928, Higher Diploma in 1929, and in 1930 his M.A. in Archæology with first class honours. In 1931 he was awarded a travelling studentship in Archæology, and spent the next two years chiefly in Britain, Switzerland and Germany, working in museums and on excavation.

He took his Ph.D degree at University College, Dublin, in 1938 with a dissertation on "The Halbert in Bronze Age Europe," which is his best-known publication. He was for two years assistant in the Antiquities Division of the National Museum, and in 1936 was appointed to the Chair of Archæology in Cork. His most important excavation work has been on the habitation sites at Lough Gur, one of the most notable sites ever investigated in Ireland, and on which work is still proceeding.

Dr. J. F. Cunningham, who was appointed to the lectureship in Gynæcology, took his primary medical degrees at University College, Dublin, in 1919, and then was for three years an assistant master of the National Maternity Hospital. He then studied at Vienna, and on his return home took the degree of Master of Obstetrics and Gynæcology, later becoming a Fellow of the Royal College of Physicians and of the Royal College of Obstetricians and Gynæcologists.

Most Rev. M. J. Browne, Bishop of Galway, arriving at the N.U.I. Senate meeting yesterday.

He was appointed Master of the National Maternity Hospital in 1931, and during his term of office, which ended in 1941, the hospital was completely re-built. He was appointed Gynæcologist to St. Vincent's Hospital in 1942.

INDIGESTION?

You're out in the street, or visiting, or shopping, when — ouch! — you've got a sharp, stabbing pain in the pit of the stomach. That's acid indigestion. What are you going to do? Run home and mix yourself something in water? Not on your life!

You put your hand in your pocket or handbag and take out a couple of Rennies (they're individually wrapped for carrying loose). You suck one of them like a sweet. Then the other. And in 80 brief seconds, they've done the trick. That excess acid is neutralised. Before you know it, aches and pains are gone. You're fit and smiling. Acid heartburn done for. Appetite A.1.

That's what Rennies' 15 wonderful ingredients do for troublesome tummies. That's what they can do for yours. 1,198 doctors agree with us. And they know.

So eat what pleases you and don't get caught out by indigestion again. Go to the nearest chemist. Buy a packet of Rennies and carry a few with you wherever you go.

Rugby Cup-Ties

By Our Rugby Football Correspondent.

THE opening ties in the first round of the Leinster Senior Cup take place at Lansdowne road to-morrow, and the pairings of Blackrock College v. University College and St. Mary's College v. Old Wesley might provide some attractive Rugby. The first tie is a particularly difficult one to try and forecast. University College have won more club games this season than Blackrock College, but the standard of their Rugby has not been high, and it is not easy to pick any particular point in which they might be superior to Blackrock. They have a good pack; but so have Blackrock, at any rate, according to the Leinster selectors, who chose five of them at different periods for Leinster this season.

Blackrock may show more combination and thrust behind the scrum if they win a fair proportion of the set scrums, for University College are not strong at midfield, as is emphasised by the fact that D. Hingerty, the captain and interprovincial, has decided to play centre three-quarter. He was there on several occasions early in the season, with no outstanding success, but he is a strong tackler, and, in Cup Rugby, might be extremely useful there. No doubt, each side will make every effort to provide their match-winning right wings, O'Flanagan and Chamberlain, with scoring openings; but, in all probability, defences will be right on top, and the scoring on the small side.

St. Mary's will be well fancied to win the second tie. Their interprovincial three-quarter line has been playing capital Rugby this season, and, even though the pack is not as strong as some in Dublin, it has been providing the men behind with a reasonable amount of the ball. Old Wesley have had a satisfactory season, for which great credit must go to E. A. Carry, not only for his individual work at out-half, but also for his clever generalship, which has improved the whole team. He is certain to be closely marked, but St. Mary's cannot afford to overlook N. and J. McConnell on the right wing. The football should be worth watching in this game, but St. Mary's ought to advance to the second round.

THE PERFECT SCHOOL TEAM

BLACKROCK... 19 WESLEY..... 0

THE Blackrock machine functioned very smoothly in the second round of the Schools' Senior Cup at Donnybrook yesterday, and they went into the semi-final with victory over Wesley College by 4 goals (1 dropped) to nil. For perfect combination in orthodox passing Blackrock played the best football seen in Dublin this season, senior clubs included; and allied to this was intelligent backing-up by forwards as well as backs.

No ordinary school team could hope to compete against the quality and keenness of Blackrock play, and they had no reason to feel too despondent about the score against them. In fact, the losers defended with great skill and determination, and their forwards, especially in the second half, more than held their own in the open; but Blackrock's hobby old nob with their backs, for the forwards heeled quickly, both from set and loose scrums.

The narrowness of the Blackrock was rather fortunate, for the Wesley out-half knocked-on a pass straight into Lehane's hands, and the centre went over near the posts, Burke converting. Then Mooney dropped a magnificent goal from near the touch-line, and just on half-time Nolan went right through from a scrum at the 25 for a very neat try, Burke again converting. The only try of the second half came after some clever combination between the pairs between McCourt and Burke the latter going over and converting.

The second match was a scrappy affair in comparison, St. Mary's beating Mountjoy by 2 goals (1 penalty) and 1 try (1). Neither team showed much construction behin the scrum, but St. Mary's had more penetration individually, scoring twice against the breeze in the first half, and held on to their advantage in the second period.

Hughes scored early on for St. Mary's from a passing movement, and McGauran, making a clean interception, put them further ahead, Donnelly converting. In the second half Mountjoy failed with a couple of possible penalty kicks, but towards the end St. Mary's were well on top, and Donnelly got a penalty goal in the closing minutes.

TERENURE ... 6 KING'S HOSPITAL 0

A third attempt, following two scoreless draws, Terenure beat King's Hospital by a penalty goal to nil in the first round of Junior Cup. In Dunne kicked the goal early in the second half.

Murphy, which will commence in next Saturday's Irish Field. There will be special articles on the prospects for the St. Patrick's Day Dog Show, the racing at Baldoyle and Limerick, the week's greyhound racing in Dublin, on golf, Rugby football, the boxing championships, racing in England, news of the season, and other features of sport.

League Tit-bit at Cork

Ten of the Northern Ireland Regional League XI., selected to play the League of Ireland at Dalymount Park on St. Patrick's Day, were beaten 5-2 by the Combined Services at Belfast on Wednesday. Some such result was expected, as the Services formed a powerful side. The match, however, afforded the League XI. the opportunity for playing together, and in that respect they will start the match at Dalymount Park with an advantage over the home team, the forward line of which has been rather adversely criticised by the man in the street, who considers it unbalanced on the inside.

Whatever chance the Southerners have of winning the home match, they do not seem to have much hope of holding their own at Belfast on Easter Monday, no matter what changes, if any, may be made in the side, as the Regional League selectors will be able to call on all the Service "stars" they may require.

Drumcondra travel to Cork for next Sunday's League of Ireland game without Shiel, their speedy and clever left-winger, whose place will be filled by Dwyer, but the latter is an experienced forward who knows the location of the goalposts. He has scored twenty-one goals for his side.

The handicap to the team would have been more severe had Daly not recovered so quickly from last Sunday's injury. This is the more important as the two remaining games on Cork United's list. Though Drumcondra are sure to make a great bid, the odds are in favour of the home team.

Dundalk, unless they pull themselves together are not certain of even second place in the Irish table. A fine all-round team, they have been rather unlucky of late, but on their own ground against Shelbourne on Sunday they should do much better than in their Cup and League games with Drumcondra at Tolka Park. They are three points ahead of the Reds.

To-morrow Bohemians have Limerick as visitors, and the two at the bottom of the table, Brideville and Bray, will be at Harold's Cross on Monday. Rovers meet the Gate at Milltown.

To-morrow (3.30) — Bohemians v. Limerick, Dalymount Park.

Sunday (3.30)—Cork United v. Drumcondra, at Cork; Dundalk v. Shelbourne, Dundalk; Shamrock Rovers v. St. James's Gate, Milltown; Brideville v. Bray Unknowns, Harold's Cross.

The Hockey Cup Semi-finals

By P. D. MacWEENEY.

The semi-finals of the Irish Senior Cup head the hockey programme for to-morrow. Both matches will be played at Londonbridge road, Lisnagarvey and Millbrook starting at 2.30, and Dublin University and Maryborough bullying off at 3.30. Last season Dublin University had to play extra time in the final before overcoming Maryborough, who put up a wonderful performance on their first appearance in the Senior Cup.

To-morrow's game probably will be closely contested also. Maryborough have, in Croke and Odlum, the best full-back combination of any club in the country, but their halves are a doubtful quantity. Since the tragic death of N. Kelly last spring they have not been able to discover a centre-half of any quality, and they are taking that good forward, J. Bolger, out of the attack to play in the middle line. Bolger is fast and fit, but he will have a very difficult assignment against the speedy Trinity attack. With R. H. Russell in their forward line this time, Maryborough have scoring possibilities, and, as Trinity are weak in the circle, Maryborough have a real chance, but most people will expect the University to take a further step in defence of the trophy.

The Ulster qualifiers, Lisnagarvey, have a strong side on paper, for they have Jess, Paul, Williams, Gaffikin, Bowden and Raphael, all of whom have played for Ulster this season. The team is unbesten in the North this season, but the Millbrook men from Limerick may give them considerable trouble. Millbrook will be strong at half-back, and their right wing they will have the former Irish international O. V. Mooney, still a force to be reckoned with.

There are three Senior League matches also down for decision to-morrow. The leaders, Portarne, will not be in action, but three of the side who are driving to keep within striking distance of them will be all out for two points. It is likely that Y.M.C.A., Pembroke Wanderers and Old Wesley Union will play Three Rock Rovers, St. James's Gate and Corinthians respectively, but a loss of even one point to any of the three first mentioned teams will put them out of the running.

NATIONAL STUD LOSS DOWN TO £126

The National Stud cut its loss to £126 in 1941, compared with £5,579 in 1940. It has made a net trading profit of £86,372 since it was established in 1916. The report of the Auditor-General on Government Trading and Commercial Services, issued last night, shows that the twelve horses sold during the year averaged £778, compared with an average of £367 for six horses sold in 1940. The share of stakes won amounted to £2,191, and service fees brought in £3,647.

During the 1942 flat racing season in England the National Stud headed the list of successful breeders with £11,990 in stakes for seventeen races won by nine horses. The major part was contributed by Sun Chariot and Big Game, who were leased to the King and won between them four classic races.

TIPPERARY HOUNDS

March 6th—Coleman's Cross. Hounds found at the Kennels three, and had a flying ten minutes. They ran fast down through Darcy's Cross, over the Moyle, turned right-handed, and marked to ground in Lower Rosegreen. From Tullamaine hounds ran out through Mr. Barry's farm, and on through Kilbragh, where they caught their fox in the open in seventeen minutes. From the Creamery Gorse a fox sneaked away, but was viewed crossing the road. He ran up over Murphy's Hill into Derryluskin. Here it looked as if his pals would see Power's Wood, but instead he turned sharp right-handed, and, crossing the road to Coolmoyne Schoolhouse, ran on down nearly to the boundary fence of Tullamaine. Here the fox was headed and turned back right-handed through the Creamery Gorse. This time going out left-handed, he ran a smaller circle, and hounds were stopped as the fox was thought to be a vixen. This was a twisting, but good, hunt of 1 hour 25 minutes.

Dr. O'Higgins and the Civil Service

In the report of the Dail on Wednesday, Dr. T. F. O'Higgins, T.D., was quoted as saying that "civil servants had increased from 2,985 in 1932 to 4,974 in the present year." His actual statement was as follows: "In 1932 the number of civil servants was 21,700. We found that by 1938 his (the Fianna Fail) Government had increased that 21,700 to 26,775. By 1941 the number had gone up to 27,400."

Alleged Turf Fraud on Hospital

The trial was opened, in the Circuit Criminal Court yesterday, before Judge Davitt, of Michael Dowling, Shelbourne road; John Greenalgh, Whelan House, Ringsend; George Byrne, Lower Baggot street, and Henry Morrison, Lower Mount street, Dublin. The four men were charged with conspiracy to defraud in respect of delivery of 1 ton of Sir Patrick Dun's Hospital; and Dowling and Greenalgh were charged on eight counts with attempting to obtain money by false pretences.

The further hearing was adjourned until to-day.

Mr. T. Hannin, Barrister-at-Law (for the prosecution) said that last March Miss E. McKew, Registrar of Sir Patrick Dun's Hospital, arranged with Anthony Dowling, father of Michael Dowling, for the supply of turf to the hospital at 64/- per ton. Dowling was to deliver the turf, and with each load produce a weighdocket from the Townsend street weighbridge of the Dublin Corporation. Actually, counsel said, one load was weighed four times before it was delivered to the hospital. Between August 18 and 27 six loads of turf were delivered to the hospital, and in the same period fifteen dockets were presented to the hospital for thirteen loads.

Miss McKew and Stanley, Mr. S. O'Byrne, Inspector of Weights and Measures, and Detective-Officer Terence then gave evidence.

Miss McKew, in cross-examination, said that it was the duty of Byrne and Morrison, the boilermen, to check the arrival of the turf.

Mr. J. Cawley, K.C. (instructed by Captain P. Cowan) appeared for Byrne and Morrison; Mr. Sean Maguire (instructed by Messrs. Lehane and Hogan) for Dowling. Greenalgh was undefended.

Scene at Shelbourne Park

A row at Shelbourne Park greyhound racing track on Wednesday night led to the appearance of three men in the District Court, before District Justice McCarthy, yesterday. They were: Christopher O'Connell (34), cattle agent, Drumcliffe road, Cabra; Dr. Christopher Hannigan (40), Whitehall road, Terenure; and James Hannigan (66), bookmaker, Naas road, Inchicore road. O'Connell was charged with attempting to obtain ten shillings from James Hannigan by falsely pretending that he had handed the latter a pound instead of ten shillings for a ten-shilling bet on a dog, which Hannigan refused. He was also charged with attempting to steal a number 1 notes from James Hannigan in the 3/6 enclosure at Shelbourne Park, and further charged with assaulting James Hannigan by striking him on the thoulder.

All were remanded on bail for a week.

Irish Shirt Manufacturers' Promise

"Every effort will be made in the near future to supply the public with the most practicable type of shirts under present circumstances, but there will naturally be a reduced supply. This was stated at the annual meeting of the Shirt Group of the Federation of Irish Manufacturers, held at 6 St. Stephen's Green, Dublin, on March 3.

The meeting considered a complete programme for planned production in respect of cotton piece goods imported from the United Kingdom, and manufactured by Irish mills. The secretary reported that, in spite of shortages of material, industry was still continuing, and it was noted with satisfaction that up to the middle of 1942 production had been continued on a fairly liberal scale owing to the purchase of reserve materials.

Mr. J. V. Mooney (Dublin Shirt and Collar Co.) was elected chairman for the coming year and delegate to the Department of Supplies Cotton Piece Goods Advisory Board, and Mr. G. P. Kelso (Somax Shirt Factory) was elected vice-chairman.

The following committee was elected:—F. H. O'Donnell (Frank Hugh O'Donnell), G. S. Thompson (G. and F. Thompson and Co.), J. Murphy (Hibernian Shirt Manufacturing Co.), J. Gallagher (Foyle Shirt and Collar Co.), M. O'Halloran (Todd, Burns and Co.), A. T. Bingham (John Street Manufacturing Co.), J. Buckley (Dwyer and Co.), A. Orr (Orrwear, Ltd.).

Medical Service in South Dublin

The permanent appointment of an additional medical officer for the southern portion of South Dublin (New Kilmainham) dispensary district is receiving consideration, and an early decision is expected.

Giving this information to Mr. P. J. Fogarty (F.F. Dublin Co.) in the Dail yesterday, Dr. Ward, Parliamentary Secretary to the Minister for Local Government and Public Health, said that since the temporary appointment of an additional medical officer in April, 1941, no further representations were made as to the inadequacy of the medical service in the area. He was not aware of any demand for the appointment of a midwife for the area.

200 Trees Stolen

Fines amounting to £13, and ranging from £1 to £2 each, were imposed at Baibriggan District Court on local people convicted of stealing timber from Hampton Demesne, the property of Senator J. J. Parkinson. It was stated in evidence that 200 trees had been stolen from Hampton within a recent period, about forty having been taken during the last two months. Four men from Skerries were, at the same Court, fined 10/- each for stealing timber at Milverton Hall.

Cycle Agents Fined £25

A fine of £25 was imposed by District Justice Molony, in Dublin yesterday, on Messrs. S. J. Geary and Co., 1 St. Stephen's Green, Dublin, for having offered for sale on October 2nd last a used bicycle with spare case and oil bath for £10 10/-, the controlled price being £9.

For the defence it was submitted that the bicycle in question had affixed a three-speed gear, and members of the Irish Cycle Traders' Association gave evidence that three-speed gears were always counted as "extras" and charged for as such when selling bicycles. Until this summons was taken against Messrs. Geary they did not realise that the Order governing price of second-hand bicycles included used bicycles with three-speed gears.

The District Justice put a stay on the fine until the 19th inst., when he agreed to hear Mr. D. Fawsitt, solicitor, for the defence, on the question of having a case stated for the High Court.

The Restriction on Cigarette Deliveries

Shipping space has been provided for the importation of small quantities of cigarettes from the United States, but this has not involved the displacement of any unmanufactured tobacco.

Giving this information in the Dail yesterday, Mr. S. Lemass, Minister for Supplies, was replying to General R. Mulcahy (F.G., Dublin N.E.), who asked if shipping space provided for the importation of cigarettes could not have been allocated for unmanufactured tobacco, so as to help maintain employment here.

Cigarette manufacturers, he said, had restricted deliveries of cigarettes to a maximum of 90 per cent. of normal purchases, presumably with a desire to relate their sales of cigarettes to the supplies of tobacco they are allowed to clear from bond.

SYMPHONY CONCERT

Charles Lynch's playing of Rachmaninoff's Second Piano Concerto (Op. 18) was the most noteworthy feature of last night's symphony concert by the Irish Radio Orchestra at the Mansion House, Dublin.

Rachmaninoff, one of the world's leading pianists, in this work gets to his subject at once, and, without any preliminary trimmings, has his soloist open the work with a succession of chords, strongly reminiscent of the more popular Prelude in C Sharp Minor. The development is full of interest, the soloist and orchestra seeming to enter into musical rivalry, but a rivalry that was kept in artistic bounds last night. The balance was always well preserved. The middle movement was beautifully sustained and prepared one for the spirited finale, in which the brilliant technique of Mr. Lynch was once again well demonstrated.

The Symphony of the night was Tschaikowsky's Fourth, that work of rich and constantly changing colour, which the composer dedicated to the woman (Natalie von Meek) who, fascinated by his music, helped to finance him. There was some fine orchestral work, with in the second movement, with its background of despression, and the Scherzo—a remarkable piece of scoring marked pizzicato ostinato, and full of all sorts of quaint musical twists and turns, well brought out under the guidance of Captain M. Bowles, the conductor.

One liked to hear again Arthur Duff's Suite for strings, with its rich Irish flavour.

The Overtures to Mozart's "Magic Flute" and Berlioz' "Benvenuto Cellini" were other acceptable items in an enjoyable night.

YOUNG PRIESTS' SOCIETY

Addressing the Dublin United Transport Company Branch of St. Joseph's Young Priests' Society last night the Rev. M. Quinlan, Spiritual Director, said that there would be

COMPANY MEETING.

WILLIAMS AND WOODS

EXPORT TRADE CONTINUES

THE fifty-first annual general meeting of Messrs. Williams and Woods, Ltd., was held at the Shelbourne Hotel, Dublin, yesterday. Moving the adoption of the directors' report and statement of accounts, Mr. Robert Thompson, P.C., Chairman and Managing director, said:—

As the accounts and directors' report have been in your possession for the statutory period, I will, with your permission, take them as read.

The prosperity of your company has continued throughout a difficult year, and the profits, including those of the subsidiary companies, amount to £32,949. Reserves and profit and loss balances now total £100,306, and our assets exceed our outside liabilities by £310,306. Our policy of adequate provision against possibilities of bad debts remains unaltered.

Raw material stocks again show an increase, and, while the range of varieties is even more restricted than last year, the factory has been kept at very nearly full production.

Later a resolution will be submitted to the meeting to approve of the payment of a dividend of 6 per cent., less tax, for the year ended 31st December, 1942, on the Ordinary shares. It was decided by the directors not to pay an interim dividend in 1942, as it was hardly worth while splitting the permitted 6 per cent. over two payments and involving double expense. Once again, as the accounts show, a higher dividend could have been paid but for the existence of Emergency Powers Order No 83.

GOOD STOCKS

We have been very fortunate in obtaining supplies during the year, and the position of stocks of most materials, having regard to the limited varieties of goods being marketed, and as reflected in the accounts, is good and we are covered for some months ahead, always assuming sugar continues to be available to us. This satisfactory forward position has necessitated heavy commitments and accounts for the high figure of sundry creditors and credit balances.

In spite of difficulties we have managed, with the help of the Department of Supplies and the provision of our own transport for turf and wood, to keep the factory supplied with fuel. To previous supply problems has been added that of obtaining packing material. However, here again the modification of standards has enabled us to avoid hold up.

As to the number of employés, you will be pleased to know that the numbers working are not in any degree, different from this time last year.

Thanks to our engineering workshop and staff, the factory plant has been maintained in good running order—a task which is no easy matter in these days of scarcity of machinery and parts. Extensions to our vinegar brewery have been effected, and our vinegar production capacity much increased.

Rationing of supplies to our customers is still in operation, but production of certain lines has been expanded during the year, and our sales have increased over 1941. The export trade in canned meat has continued throughout the year, and is continuing in 1943.

SALES INCREASED

I am sure you will all agree that our thanks are due to factory, sales and office personnel for the way in which they have carried on so successfully and loyally through a very trying period. During the year we obtained Government permission for an increase of wage rates to help cover the increased cost of living of the workers.

I now have pleasure in moving that the accounts and balance sheet, together with the auditors' report and directors' report thereon, as submitted, including the Preference and Ordinary dividends and appropriations set out therein, be approved and adopted.

Before calling upon the Deputy Chairman to second the motion, I will endeavour to answer any questions that you may like to put to me.

Seconding the adoption of the report, Mr. R. G. H. Russell, P.C., Deputy Chairman, said that, if the fuel position had not improved since last year, at least they had adapted themselves more to the situation. One of the greatest problems confronting them was that of sugar supplies, but he had the utmost possible confidence in the foresight of their operational managers.

There was a greater bogey for all industrialists, and that was the ill-conceived and probably imminent threat of a general election. One could not contemplate such a situation, when the country is crossing such a dangerous stream, without dismay. Could it not still be possible to listen to views other than those of professional politicians and ambitious candidates?

On the proposal of the Chairman, seconded by Sir Thos. W. Robinson, the meeting approved of the payment of a dividend of 6 per cent., less tax, for the ordinary shares for the year ended 31st December, 1942.

Mr. H. C. McNally, P.C., and Mr. R. G. H. Russell, P.C., outgoing directors, were unanimously re-elected, on the proposal of Mr. Cormac Breathnach, T.D., seconded by Mr. A. L. Barber. Messrs. Stokes Bros. and Pim were re-elected auditors for the coming year.

A vote of thanks to the Chairman for his conduct of the firm's business during the past year was passed unanimously, on the proposal of Mr. Jos. Gibson, seconded by Mr. J. P. Colbert. Mr. Colbert said he was sure that whatever vicissitudes followed this war the company would be capable of overcoming them.

In addition to the Chairman and Deputy Chairman, the following directors were present:—Sir Thos. W. Robinson, and Messrs. J. R. Gillespie, H. C. McNally, P.C., and Cormac Breathnach, T.D., LL.D.

Switzer's Net Profit

Switzer and Co. Ltd., report a net profit of £14 084 for the year to January 31 1943 compared with £12,123 for the previous year. As already known, the final Ordinary dividend is repeated at 31½ p.c., to make 6 p.c. for the year. (Same). Premises, etc. is placed £2,500 (against £1,500), and the transfer to reserve is doubled at £2,000. The carry forward is raised from £9,544 to £9,629.

Balance sheet ... ws that there were additions to premises during the year, which cost £1,365. Stock-in-trade stands at £116,422 (against £105,535) and cash is nearly doubled at £16,448.

An Indiscretion

One of the virtues of American diplomacy always has been its frankness. It has been the policy of successive Governments of the United States to choose their foreign representatives from the ranks of distinguished Americans, regardless of their professional qualifications; and, while other nations almost invariably have chosen diplomatists de carrière to represent them in foreign capitals, no such limitation has been placed on American appointments. In many respects this tradition—or lack of tradition—is admirable; in others, it is to be deplored. The European diplomatist always can be trusted to say nothing in the politest way; he is trained ad hoc. If he is a good diplomatist, he never is guilty of an indiscretion; if he is a bad diplomatist, he rapidly finds himself condemned to a post in some remote country, where he cannot do much harm to anybody. It is all part of the age-old international game, which is played according to certain well-defined rules, and, rightly or wrongly, has stood the test of many generations. The American system is quite different. American Ambassadors are not expected to conform to European standards of diplomacy; and this freedom from convention is at once their strength and their weakness. An interesting, and important, example has been provided during the last week by Admiral Standley, American Ambassador in Moscow. Admiral Standley is a sailor rather than a diplomatist, trained in the bluff ways of the quarter deck rather than in the subtle arts of the European Chancellery. Sailors are accustomed to call a spade a spade, and at a Press conference in Moscow on Monday Admiral Standley made a statement which must be almost unique in the history of international diplomacy. He announced bluntly that the Russian newspapers seem to ignore the fact the Soviet Union has been receiving material assistance from the United States, not only through the lend-lease system, but also through the Red Cross and American-Russian relief. The gallant Admiral went so far as to say that the Soviet authorities seemed to be creating the impression that they were fighting the war alone. "There appears," he said, "to be a desire on the part of the Russians to make out that they are fighting the war with their own resources rather than acknowledge help from anybody."

Mr. Sumner Welles, Assistant Secretary of State in the American Government, has declared that Admiral Standley's statement was made without previous consultation with Washington. He has cabled to Moscow for the full report of the Admiral's remarks, and until it has been received official comment is being withheld. There can be no doubt at all that relations between Soviet Russia and her Anglo-American Allies are anything but intimate. From the outset, the alliance between them has been a mariage de convenance rather than a union of souls. It must be remembered that some little time before the outbreak of war the Soviet Government concluded a pact of "non-aggression" with Germany, that it annexed a substantial part of Poland as well as the whole of Bessarabia, and that it also waged war against the Finns. Since the Germans attacked the Soviet Union in the summer of 1941, the Russians, while accepting Anglo-American aid, have pursued their own policy without reference to either London or Washington. They were not parties to the Atlantic Charter, drawn up by President Roosevelt and Mr. Winston Churchill. They were not represented at Casablanca, when the British and American leaders made their historic pronouncement regarding "unconditional surrender." Throughout the period of their association with the Anglo-American Allies, the Russians have committed themselves to nothing. They have left themselves with entirely free hands; but they never have sought to conceal their belief that the British and Americans were not giving them that measure of military assistance which, they say, they have a right to expect. Admiral Standley, in the American vernacular, has "spilled the beans." To what extent his indiscretion will injure the relations between Russia and the Anglo-Saxon democracies remains to be seen; but, at any rate, it probably will clear the air. During the last six months the Russian armies have been fighting alone against the vast might of the German Reich. The Russian people, who have been led to expect the establishment of a second front on the European continent, and, being essentially "land-lubbers," do not understand the problems that confront sea Powers, such as Great Britain and the United States, take the view, not unnaturally, that the British and Americans have not been shouldering their fair share of the common burden. Admiral Standley's forthright statement undoubtedly was "undiplomatic" in the accepted sense of the term. In so far as it may help to awaken the British and American peoples to the realities of an increasingly difficult situation, it may prove in the long run to have done more good than harm.

The New Professor

The Senate of the National University yesterday decided the controversy which has raged for the last fortnight around the vacant Chair of Education in University College, Dublin, by electing Mr. W. J. Williams as the new Professor by 23 votes to 7. The decision is in accordance with the recommendation of the Governing Body, and apparently with the wishes of the students; it is contrary to the demands of the Gaelic League and other bodies with similar interests; yet we feel that it is the only decision which could have been made by educated and conscientious men. This newspaper, in a recent leading article, mentioned that it was "desirable" that a Professor of Education should have a competent knowledge of Irish. Against the mildness of this statement, Mr. Tomás O Floinn, in our correspondence columns to-day, makes an earnest protest. He says that the language "is the principal subject in every school in the country, and the foremost problem in the whole educational system." It seems that the basic point of difference between ourselves and Mr. O Floinn is that he looks at education from the point of view of Irish, and we at Irish from the point of view of education. The work of a Professor of Education is, largely, to be familiar with educational trends in general, and, in particular, with child psychology; and to communicate his knowledge to his students so that they will go about the teaching of their own subjects in the right way. The actual teaching of the subjects, in Irish or in any other way, is their business. Essentially, then, the question is whether the revival of Irish is to be a feature of our education or the whole basis and object of it. We submit, respectfully, that the purpose of education should be not to make the child an Irishman, but to make him a man. Unquestionably, necessary knowledge must be imparted; but the greater purpose is to develop—in the words of the President of Corpus Christi College, Oxford—"values and standards which are more than habits, which go down below the soil of custom into the rock of clear conviction and are founded in a philosophy of life." The decision of the Senate of the National University is a victory for the university—the universal—idea over the national idea. A narrower ideal may be dominating our schooling, and Mr. O Floinn's claims may be correct; but they ought not to be correct. The school, like the university, must learn to think in terms of mankind.

AS Flora slept, and I lay waking, I smil'd, I smil'd to see a bird's mistaking, a bird's mistaking. Fa la la la la la la la la la la la la la la la la la la la la la la la la la la la. As Flora slept, and I lay waking, I smil'd, I smil'd, to see a bird's mistaking. Fa la la la la la la. Fa la la la la la la la la la. Fa la la la la la la la la la. For from a bough, it down did skip, it down did skip, it down did skip, and for a cherry, peck'd her her lip. Fa la la la sorry I'm wanted on the phone.

Hire Stodgies

There's a piece by Mr. Eochaidh O Heodhusa in Miss Knott's IRISH SYLLABIC POETRY. It seems that there was a team of thirty philosophers (not incl. 3 subs and a ref.) who succeeded in breaking the nephology problem down into its categories. They had their eye on a certain cloud and word got round that when this cloud broke, all persons who came in contact with the moisture thereof would lose those now obsolete accessories, their wits. These thirty meaty O'Rologists 4th-with addressed the following intricate stanza of advice to all (and, of course, sundry).

A shluagh an domhuin, déanaidh uamha doimhne i ndroibhéalaibh (ar lucht eagna an bheatha bhí) Ar eagla an cheatha ad-chluintí.

The idea of being asked to build underground shelters by a lot of ingenious professors just made the honest citizens laugh. It now began to get very dark and the brain trust retired into a certain subterranean diggings or as Mr. O'H. endearingly remarks rug an bhuidhean bhriathartnár céim luath dá bhfírdhéan féin fá bhruach ndínliggeal ndroibhéal, doubtless murmuring he who laughs laughs laughs laughs. The crowd swells, blackens, explodes and what have you. The sky clears, nature being what it is (and not what it isn't, strangely enough) and me thirty technical men come up to the ground floor ready to say Itoldyouso. Right enough (that adequate orthodoxy oh do shut up) they perceive that everybody who remained out in the rain has gone quite mad. They are pleased at this, prim bodies that they are. But hold on till you hear what happened. Take over, Hussey!

Déanaimne aimhghlic amhuil sinn féin, ar na feallsamhain, beag díol na cruinne dar gcéill ná bíom 'san uile acht d'éinmhéin.

I mean, they simply had to adapt themselves or be condemned as mad by the majority. But I keep wondering whether sinn féin up there should read Sinn Féin.

Research Bureau

fixed in some suitable position out of doors and connected to the apparatus by a pipe. The cylinder shown is rotated by clockwork and bears a suitable chart upon which a line is traced by the recorder on left, which is floating on the rainwater. The water can be drawn off weekly via the tap at bottom right. The great utility of the apparatus lies in the fact that it saves you the trouble of looking out of the window to see whether it is a wet day. Moreover, when you hear the sound of thunderous downpours at night, the gauge will tell you whether it is really rain or merely that dreadful hammering in your head again.

To-morrow: An apparatus for cleaning filthy bottles.

'Pineate' for Children's Coughs

Mrs. Wyatt, an East Sheen mother, writes: "Some time ago my little girl Sheila developed whooping-cough. We were nearly desperate. Then I heard about 'Pineate,' and thought I'd give it a trial. The result was instantaneous! The cough eased, and slowly but surely she threw it off.

"Now if 'Pineate' relieves even whooping-cough you do know it's good, don't you? Get a bottle from your chemist (price 1/9d., including Purchase Tax) and stop that cough before it gets a hold.
